Something like--

Hi, thanks for the question. The Pavilion report is open to all for public review and comment until September 30. While I haven't reviewed what we've received to date, it seems like Mr. Sterrett's review might be among the public comments.

How should I respond?

Hi,

I'm a student of the National University of Ireland, Galway.

I'm in the middle of an assignment regarding the US EPA report on Pavillion, WY, and I was wondering if you could point me in the right direction.

I have to review the report and I was doing a bit of research there and I found Robert J. Sterrett's review of the report. I was wondering if this is considered a formal review by outside experts? Because I read an article (below) that said it hasn't yet been formally reviewed.

Thanks very much if you get a chance to read this and get back to me.
